Last Updated: November 4, 2026

These Supplemental Terms govern User's access to and use of the Sigma Computing, Inc. ("Sigma") analytics module (the "Sigma Service") made available through Viventium. These Supplemental Terms constitute “Additional Terms” under the Agreement and supplement and form part of the applicable agreement between User and Viventium (the "Agreement"). Capitalized terms not otherwise defined in these Supplemental Terms have the meanings assigned in the Agreement.

(d) Make the Sigma Service available to third parties except as expressly permitted under applicable embedding terms authorized by Viventium;

(i) Alter or submit data to any sample databases provided within the Sigma Service;

(j) Store or transmit unlawful, infringing, defamatory, or otherwise prohibited content, including materials that violate third-party privacy rights;

(k) Circumvent applicable usage limitations or access restrictions; or

(l) Frame or mirror the Sigma Service except for User's internal business purposes or as otherwise expressly permitted in the applicable Documentation.

2. Suspension of Access.

Sigma may suspend User's access to the Sigma Service if Sigma reasonably determines that User's or its Authorized Users' activities cause, or are reasonably likely to cause, significant harm to Sigma or the Sigma Service, or threaten its security, integrity, or availability.

Sigma shall use commercially reasonable efforts, taking into account the circumstances, to provide advance notice and an opportunity to remedy the issue, limit the suspension to affected accounts, and restore access promptly following resolution of the circumstances giving rise to the suspension.
